

If you would like me to do a portrait of your pet, here are some top tips for taking or supplying a good photograph.

CLARITY

High quality resolution photographs are a must. The lighting should be good, and the focus clear, not blurry. I need to see detail clearly, especially the eyes, fur direction and markings.

COMPOSITION

Animals must be facing forwards or sideways, but not looking up at the camera from below. A clear view of the face is essential.

COLOUR

If you are having a painting done in colour, you need to make sure that the photograph gives a true representation of the animal's colouring. For example, a grey dog can look brown in a certain light. Don't use a flash, and take the picture in natural daylight if possible.

A good example

A bad example

07771 877246
artyfish@stephaniefisherartist.com
www.stephaniefisherartist.com